

FROM WASHINGTON.

[Special Correspondence of the Alex. Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 2, 1889.

The managers of the democratic party in Indiana have now pretty well established the fact that Judge Wood of that State who first decided that Dudley's "blocks of five" letter was evidence of a conspiracy to buy votes, and who subsequently reversed that decision and decided it was not, unless it could be proved that its instructions had been carried out, obtained his second light from Attorney General Miller, upon whom it was reflected by President Harrison. It is understood the whole matter will be exposed. No wonder the President doesn't invite Col. Dudley to dine with him. He naturally thinks that all bowed the Colonel was paid when he kept him out of the penitentiary.

Judge Perkins of Kansas, who has been stumping for Gen. Mahone in Virginia, has returned here, and makes a great ado over the fact that a tavern keeper at Orange C. H. had the pithier he and the negroes who composed his audience used broken, so that his patrons would be in no danger of drinking from it hereafter. The Judge, however, does not mention the fact that by the constitution of his State no ex-Confederate can vote there until his disabilities shall have been removed by an act of the legislature.

One of the committee appointed by the Old Dominion republican league of this city to collect political assessments upon Virginia office holders here, says he has met with little or no success, as the men he called upon seemed to be afraid to pay such assessments.

Though the Old Dominion republican league of this city got little or no money out of the Virginia federal office holders here, they received enough from other sources to enable them to charter a steamboat, on which, next Monday, they will send about eight hundred negroes to Quantico, where they will be supplied with tickets to various points along the R. F. & P. R. R. These in addition to about five hundred more who have been sent by other routes.

Messrs. Downing, of Kansas, and E. M. Lowe, of this city, went to Langley, Fairfax county, Va., yesterday, to make speeches for General Mahone. Mr. Downing filled his engagement, but the opposition to Mr. Lowe was so apparent that he did not fill his.

Mr. Blunt, who was shot here last Monday, continues to improve, and is now thought to be out of danger.

The following is the only change in the 4th class postoffice of Virginia that was made to day: Buena Vista, Rockbridge county, E. H. Gilbert appointed postmaster, vice W. R. Woodson removed.

STATE POLITICAL NOTES.

Gen. Mahone addressed two meetings in Manchester, last night, one in Gibbs Hall and the other an open air meeting. He struck closely to his regular campaign speech. Senator Blair, of New Hampshire, also spoke.

The meeting of the McKinney, Tyler and Scott Club in Warrenton last night was very largely attended, this being the last meeting before the election, and after transacting important business, Capt. A. D. Payne, Col. W. S. Fowler, and Hon. R. Taylor Scott made addresses which were enthusiastically received. All are ready for the fray.

John M. Langston, who has been canvassing Ohio for Foraker, arrived at Petersburg yesterday, having been recalled by Chairman Quay, of the republican national committee. He made a speech to a large crowd of colored people last night, in which he urged his friends and supporters to vote, as he would, the entire republican State ticket. He also issued an address urging a united support of the entire republican ticket.

Yesterday in the Henrico county court argument was heard on the petition presented by Judge Waddill, representing the Mahone party, in reference to the registrars' action concerning the registration books. This petition was a general complaint against a number of registrars of the county for a failure to register colored voters and for striking names from the books. After a lengthy argument the petition of Judge Waddill was dismissed on technical grounds. It is understood that a mandamus will be applied for in the Circuit Court to day.

The persecution of citizens of the Danville section by United States marshals and commissioners in the interest of Mahone continues, and the alleged that over a hundred warrants for the arrest of judges of election and persons who took an active part in last fall's election have been issued. The indignation which the arrest of the three citizens of Pittsylvania county created caused Commissioner Tinsley and Marshal Mills to call a halt, and numerous Mahone leaders were called to Danville yesterday to consult. It is rumored numerous arrests will be made in Danville and Halifax county. At an immense overflow meeting last night speeches were made by leading citizens, who urged the people to hold in their indignation and permit no resistance to the marshals.

A Card from Gen. W. H. F. Lee.

RAVENSWORTH, Va., Nov. 1, 1889.

To the Editor of the Alexandria Gazette:

I have, on my return home for a few hours, received a letter from a personal friend, who says,

"It is reported and in some quarters, believed, that some of your friends in Alexandria will not support Hume for the legislature, but are sure if any of your friends withhold their active support of Hume it will be against your wishes."

I am sure that this report is an unjust reflection upon my democratic friends in Alexandria city; and as my time between this and election day is occupied with engagements in the canvass, I am compelled to communicate with them through your columns. I am sure that every true democrat will do his whole duty on Tuesday next, and I therefore urge my friends not only to give Mr. Frank Hume, the democratic nominee for the legislature, their earnest, but their cordial support.

Very truly yours, W. H. F. LEE.

GEN. MAHONE'S strikers are making promises of office to a number of dissatisfied democrats, hoping by such means to secure their votes, and this in spite of the fact that there are a dozen republican applicants for every office to be filled, each of whom has been promised the same position.

GEN. MAHONE boasts of his ability to buy enough votes—both while and colored—to elect him Governor of Virginia on Tuesday. Such an utterance from a man who aspires to the gubernatorial chair should be enough to induce all honest men to repudiate him.

MUCH EXAGGERATED.—The story sent out from Milton, W. Va., concerning the Lincoln county factions is a gross exaggeration in every particular. Milton is seventy-five miles from the seat of the trouble, and the affair is a fake. Detectives yesterday arrested "Kentucky Bill," one of the Blumfields, on a charge of murder. His friends rallied and released him.

The Mahone Exposure.

[From the New York World of to-day.]

The revelations concerning Mahone's dickerings with foreign bankers ought to end his career and bring upon him not only the contempt of the people of the State he tried to sell at auction for the benefit of the London stock jobbers, but the abhorrence of all Americans who look upon public office as a public trust and believe that men should hold office in this country only by virtue of the free choice of their fellow citizens.

The story reduced to its essentials is this: Mahone was conducting a campaign in Virginia; if he could carry it he would have control of the legislature and would be able to compel his own election as United States Senator. He could only carry the election by purchase and he needed the sum of $100,000 with which to buy it.

Meantime the London stock jobbers who held the State's bonds were likely to lose the greater part of their investments by reason of the Riddleberger readjustment law, of which Mahone himself had secured the passage. They could get no better terms out of the democrats than those offered in Mahone's Riddleberger law, and they could not sue the State, get judgment, issue executions, levy upon the property and sell the commonwealth at auction.

At this juncture Mahone offered to make a dicker with the stock-jobbers. They were to furnish him $100,000 of British money with which to carry an American election, and in return he was to induce the legislature to enter into a suit with the State of West Virginia which would bring Virginia within reach of court process and enable the bondholders to levy upon the State and sell it at sheriff's vendue.

It was a plot utterly bad at every point. I proposed the carrying of an election by purchase; it ought to make an English syndicate a controlling political force in an American State, and finally it contemplated the financial ruin of the State and of all its people.

The man who devised this scheme and sought to carry it out is now a candidate for Governor of the State he proposed to sell to Englishmen, and his canvass is supported by all the powers and influence of the Administration at Washington.

Was there ever anything worse or more startling in American politics?

The Alexandria Republicans.

We are confronted by a condition—not a theory—just so. We are confronted by the condition of nearly one-half of the republican party here in Virginia disfranchised, unable to say who they will choose to rule over them, or who they will send to a republican convention. And the party which was to be benefited by our votes, refused to hear and adjust our grievances until it is too late, and now, through his friends, frantically calls upon us to pull him out of the slough into which he has voluntarily waded, and that, too, against our earnest protests. No sir, it is too late. We won't do it now, besides, if we did, what guarantees have we that he would not curse us as soon as we loaded him on hard ground. We don't like mud, and are not going to voluntarily wade in to help him out, when all our efforts in that direction have been scorned. Besides, to a person of ordinary intellect, it would seem that Gen. Mahone ought to have a guardian appointed over him. For a man who wants to be governor of a great State, and a close one at that, to start in as a candidate, with a fight on his hands extending all over the State, in his own party, and of his own provocation, is idiotic or criminally brazen for ordinary mortals to have any patience with. Why, to a person of common political sagacity, it would seem that prudence would have dictated that he should have sent the Yosts, Groner, Gov. Cameron, Gen. Brady, Mr. Lewis, Major Hine, McKenzie, and men of that class, corralled them all as it were, treated them courteously, given way on his plan of organization, and he would have been our next Governor; almost every mother's son of us would have supported him. He failed to give an inch soon after he saw the storm he had raised coming. And to day there are a large number of republicans in the State who are as anxious to beat him as the same number of democrats. No thunderbolts from Col. Eiam of "He who dallies is a dastard; he who doubts is damned," will avail. We know what we want; it is Gen. Mahone's "hide on the fence." The national committee's, and even the present administration's, wishes will avail him nothing. Gen. Mahone will be beaten, and that by the action of a large class of his own party, whom he has persistently outraged. And we recognize the fact that in taking his scalp we are not spilling one drop of republican blood. We will carry his scalp in our belt with just as much pride as we carry Cleveland's, Hancock's and Tilden's. We are republicans, and as such we propose to give this State a republican form of government if it takes five years to do it. He is not a republican in sentiment, has outraged every republican sentiment in the State, has resorted to low, cunning tricks, deceit, fraud, hate, malice, bribery, &c. But we do not intend to allow it to prevail anything. He will not be Governor of Virginia. We will bury them all with him on the 5th of November, when we hope to have peace in the party and can then elect somebody. The republicans are in a majority in the State and can elect our candidates if we can have peace. Fellow republicans, we must take such action as will give us peace or our grand old party is not worth saving.

Respectfully, W. P. GRAVES.

Alexandria, Nov. 2.

A Correction.

BURKE'S STATION, Va., Nov. 1.

To the Editor of the Alexandria Gazette:

Sir: The good name of this community requires a correction of your report of a disturbance at the republican meeting held here on Wednesday night last. Your reporter has evidently been deceived by some one. No such disturbance occurred. The facts are simply these: The republicans had a large meeting here at that time, and during its progress a drunken man from the State of New York, not a citizen of Virginia, interrupted the speaker, but only succeeded in showing the bitter malice of his heart and exposing his own ignorance.

Not a lick was struck and no one was hurt except the few decent democrats present, who don't hesitate to express their regret that such an indecent interruption should have occurred. Respectfully,

J. SANGSTER.

[The report that a disturbance had occurred at Burke's station on Wednesday night was current in this city on Thursday morning, and the statement published in the GAZETTE was furnished by a gentleman who passed through the village that morning.]

CRAZED BY A CHURCH ROW.—A dispatch from Wilkesbarre, Pa., says Father Warnog, the deposed Polish priest at Plymouth, has gone crazy over his troubles. Yesterday evening Martin Wilkes, the leader of the Polish faction, had Father Donahue, pastor of St. Vincent's Church, and Father Barba, the priest whom the Poles refused to receive at their pastor, arrested for forcible entry and detention. Justice Roberts, who heard the case, promptly dismissed the complaint and put the costs on Wilkes. There was a large crowd at the hearing, and after it was over Wilkes was hissed.

He denied that he understood the ceremony which the rabbi performed on September 8 between Miss Sarah Marx and himself to be a marriage. He also swore that he never introduced Sarah Marx as his wife and never lived with her as such. The jury, however, found him guilty of bigamy, and he was remanded for sentence.

FIGHT IN A COURT ROOM.—While Judge Minor was hearing the registration cases at Hanover Courthouse yesterday, Simon Solomon, the democratic chairman of the county, struck E. T. McCue, a member of the republican State committee. The two men have not been on speaking terms for some time past. They were both in the courtroom as interesting spectators of the proceedings. Solomon brushed against McCue in attempting to pass him. A spat followed, the upshot of which was that Solomon struck the republican committeeman, in the courtroom. Judge Minor said as he was hearing these cases in chambers, he would not take judicial notice of the affair. The courtroom was packed with loungers and spectators at the time.

ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCHES.

Hatfields and McCoy's Again.

MILTON, W. Va., Nov. 2.—Reports of another battle between the Hatfields and McCoy's have reached here. Friday night a party of about 30 of the McCoy's came across a Blumfield camp in the woods about 6 miles from Green Shoals; both bands were bound for the headquarters of their respective factions and were heavily armed. When the McCoy's discovered their enemies, they sent out scouts and discovered that there were about a score in the camp. They crawled up through the dense underbrush and poured in a volley on their sleeping foes. In an instant it was returned and the Hatfields, although taken by surprise, were so much better armed than the McCoy's, having repeating rifles, that they soon put them to flight. The one volley fired by the McCoy's did terrible execution. Half a dozen men were wounded and two were slain. John Blumfield, one of the leaders of his faction, was instantly killed. By his side lay Edwin Brown, the son of the woman who was shot in her farm house at Fudgy's Creek. Six other men were wounded, one of them whose name is unknown, being fatally hurt. After dawn the Hatfields found two dead men, and four desperately wounded men were captured. Some of the wounded McCoy's must have been carried off by their friends for the trail of their retreat through the woods was marked by bloodstains. The prisoners captured are Charles Lambkin, John Cain, Cain and Pete McCoy. The names of the dead are unknown. The Cain whose first name was not learned, was so badly wounded that his captors left him to die where he lay, but the other three were compelled to march to the Hatfield headquarters, which they reached about noon yesterday. As soon as the story of the attack and capture was told a sort of court martial was held. The prisoners were not allowed to speak in their own defense, and after a short deliberation a vote on their life or death was taken by the entire Hatfield party. The result was unanimous, and the three men will be tied to trees and shot to-day. Nothing can save them unless the McCoy's can defeat the entire Hatfield party and effect a rescue. This is not likely, as they are outnumbered two to one and the Hatfields are better armed. The courier who brought this news was shot at twice from ambush while riding through Lincoln county.

The Outlook in Virginia.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The Herald special from Richmond says: One of Mahone's committee told me to day that, while Mahone still believed he would be elected Governor, he (the committeeman) had no idea that he would. "The democrats have everything their own way," he said, "and they will keep Mahone from being Governor." Mahone announced early in the campaign that he would speak in Richmond, where he is thoroughly detested, but he has never done so and he will not do so.

A special from Richmond to the Sun says: From all over the State the evidence is indisputable that Mahone will be overwhelmingly defeated if there is a fair count. This is too plainly demonstrated to be matter of doubt to any candid observer, and the fact is equally patent that Mahone is holding for the last day his desperate games of violence. These will be mainly tried in the country, where he thinks easy going farmers will allow him to stuff the ballot boxes rather than incur personal danger by resisting him. This last plan only became known a few days ago, but the democrats have been working diligently to put the farmers on their guard.

Fight at a Fish Fry.

DENISON, Texas, Nov. 2.—A desperate battle took place Friday in the Choctaw Nation between two negroes at a fish fry. Whiskey was introduced and a number of negroes became intoxicated. Willis Jones and MacCarver became involved in a difficulty and it was agreed that they should leave the grounds and fight it out. The men fought desperately for several minutes when Jones gave MacCarver a stunning blow which laid him out. The bystanders interfered, when Jones plunged his knife into the groin of a full blooded Choctaw Indian and the whole crowd took to their legs and fled with Jones in pursuit. A shot from a Winchester rifle brought him to bay and he was conducted to Antlers and turned over to the custody of an officer.

A Dash for Liberty.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Bortikewitch, the Russian professor who was recently acquitted in the Court of General Sessions of snatching a young woman's pocketbook in the Equitable Building, and who was again arrested on a charge of stealing rings valued at $400 from the apartments of Col. Paine at the Buckingham Hotel, made a determined dash for liberty while he was being brought to police headquarters by two detectives. When Houston street was reached the professor, without warning, made a dash for the station railing and plunged headlong into the street. His right leg was broken in the fall and his head and forehead badly bruised. He was subsequently taken to Bellevue hospital.

Snow and Rain.

MASON CITY, Iowa, Nov. 2.—The heavy rain which had been falling for 24 hours changed last night to snow, which is now three inches deep on the ground.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., No. 2.—Rain has fallen heavily and almost without cessation for three days. An enormous quantity of water has fallen, and the streams are all rising and the roads becoming impassable.

From Honolulu.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—Advices from Honolulu state that the trial of Robert Wilcox, the leader of the insurgents in the July rioting, came to an abrupt termination, as the jury expressed a bias before the court. The jury was accordingly dismissed. Application was made to have Wilcox released on bail but the question has not yet been decided.

The Cronin Trial.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Charles J. Carlson, son of the owner of the Carlson cottage, the first witness in the Cronin case this morning, testified that Burke whom he recognized in court, was the man who called at the cottage and rented the house, paying the first month's rent in advance. After the house was relinquished he found stains on the baseboard that looked like blood, and the floor was painted in the centre of the room, evidently to conceal blood stains.

The remains of what were probably victims of an old murder, were exhumed at Paola, Kas., yesterday. Each skull bore the marks of having been crushed in by a heavy blow.

Dr. Sheppard the democratic candidate for Surrogate of Warren county, N. J., was found dead in bed this morning. Heart disease was the cause. His death causes much excitement in political circles.

The Prince of Wales has been received in Egypt as a veritable sovereign. His visit is intended to increase England's prestige on the Nile and to reaffirm her right of a protectorate over Egypt.

It is said that the visit of Count Ka'noky to Prince Bismarck, and Emperor William's visit to Italy are intended to strengthen the peace of Europe. The Emperor's visit will encourage the Sultan to peacefully develop the economic forces of Turkey.

A dispatch from Winnipeg this morning says: Assistant State's Attorney Baker, of Chicago, had a long interview with Bob Heffer yesterday and from him received a corroboration of many of the details connected with the butchery of Cronin which Gillette recounted on Thursday.

Reports from Harlan county, Ky., verify the story telegraphed Thursday that Judge Lewis and posse shot to death six of the Howard faction. Will Howard and Will Jennings, his lieutenant, escaped unscathed into Virginia.

Prof. H. A. Rowland, of the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, has been elected a member of the Royal Scientific Society of London. He is the third person on this side of the water to be thus honored.

The power of the imagination is certainly very strong, but it takes something with more of a body and base to cure a cold or cough. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is now the great national remedy.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The stock market this morning was a continuation of that of yesterday. The opening was generally steady to firm and the general list in the early trading presented a strong front, though subsequently a drooping tendency was manifest, though the movements in the list were entirely without significance.
